HOW MRS. BURRUSS DECEIVED ALL

The Story of Assault Arranged to Hide the Fact That She Used Her Husband's Money.

(Special Dispatch to The Times.) SPOTSYLVANIA, VA., March 7 .- On Monday morning of February 28th Mr. Nelson L. Burruss, of Thornsburg, in this county, went to mill, leaving his wife alone. On his return he found his wife apparently in an unconscious condition. She soon rallied, however, and told Mr. Burruss that a man with rabbit skins on his hands and face, so as to disguise himself, forced an entrance into the dining-room, and then into her chamber, where she was about her neuschold duties. Mrs. Burruss than said he assaulted her, and she fainted from excitement. When she became conscious, she says the man had a hatchet, with which he eut open the bureau-drawer, from which he took $63, consisting of a $29 gold coin, a $20 gold certificate and the balance in smaller change. She says she tried to inn the man away when she regained consciousness, when he made for her with a knife, which she knocked out of his hand. The man then left, going first on his heels and then on tip-toes, so as not to be tracked. Mrs. Burruss claimed to remember what kind of suit, shoes and hat her assailant had on, but sho could not tell whether he was white or

Sheriff T. A. Harris and Commonwealth's Attorney Lee J. Graves were apprised of the alleged assault, went to the place, and reported the above on the night of the 28th, and thought they had a chain of circumstances which might lead to the arrest of some suspicious parties, but all these were able to prove an alibi by responsible people.

One $29 bill was found on the floor and also the old knife on the return of Mr.

Burruss.
On the 32 instant, it being court day lere, it was generally rumored that Mrs. Burruss had not been assaulted, but that $43 were gone, and that there was a good deal of crookedness connected with the affair. On the 4th instant Mr. Eurruss came here and told the sheriff that he had been decieved by his wife, and cried like a child. He said he had been living in a hell for Sheriff Harris and Commonwealth's At-torney Graves made a thorough investi-gation yesterday before Justice Carroll Goodlowe and the Justice, after a thorough and rigid examination of the many witnesses, came to the conclusion that witnesses, came to the cenclusion that beyond the possibility of a deubt, Mrs. Burruss had used her husband's money, and fearing that he would censure her for so doing, artfully laid the criminal plan for purposes of deception, which plan was so successfully, on her part, conceived and carried out as to deceive not only her husband and neighbors, but the officials of the law. but the officials of the law.

This affair, which promised such sensational developments, has happily resulted, by means of a thorough investigation in the absolute vindication of the individual to whom Mrs. Burruss directed suspicion, and at the same time has been the means of remov ing from this county the stigma of so base a crime.

CONCURRED IN LAST YEAR

Seventy-Two Conversions as Result of Revival Services at West-Street Methodist Church-Hill Camp Elects Delegates.

(Special Dispatch to The Times)

PETTERSBURG, VA., March 7.—There is some disappointment at the fact that the Rivers and Harbors Committee of Congress did not incorporate in their report the bill providing for the improvement of Appomattox River. Congressman Lassiter, from this district, assisted by Senator Martin, worked faithfully in the interest of the appropriation, and a prominent member of the committe was secured to make a motion that the bill for the improvement of Appomattox River be included in the rivers and harbors bill. The motion was not carried, however. This fact in no way means that the Appomattox bill will be lost at this secsion of Congress. At the last session the bill was not incorporated by the Rivers and Harbors Committee, but was put in by the Senate and concurred in by the House, and would have passed but for the entire rivers and harbors bill being talked to death.
